

User Tests:

Shawn Verhaegen tested Our wireframes and noticed some minor issues. He found it really difficult to find the notification alert on the company page. He found the vocabulary that we used confusing in the tab fulfill. He did not know what it meant. The home page was bit too crowded with information and he suggested to put some information on another page. He found out that the transport page on the home screen is the same as on the transport page so it was not necessary on the home page. He forgot his password and there was no forgot password link or help available . He found the redirection to the about us page from the login screen a bit confusing. There was also a typo in the word Government.
